EDITORIAL: FATHER'S DAY

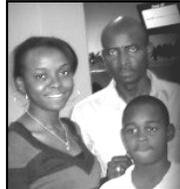

Today we celebrate Father's day. It is at a time when our society is crying out for male role models. Many persons are looking to our men folk for that father figure. We are aware that fatherhood brings with it, awesome responsibilities as we are not only expected to provide food, clothing and shelter but we are also required to be good examples for our children to follow.

The Bible, in Ephesians 6:4, states that fathers should raise their children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. It means therefore that if we are to train our children aright, we ourselves need to be trained. We must possess the knowledge and experience ourselves to pass it on.

A good father should develop a good relationship with his children so that they feel free to come and discuss any matter that affects them. He has the responsibility of taking care of his family and giving them a sense of security. Happy Father's day to all fathers.

THOUGHT:

Never compromise your integrity.

WHO IS A REAL MAN?

Real manhood is not measured in physical power or prowess. It means more than being physically strong with big biceps, tall, broad shoulders, etc. The strongest man of the Bible was Samson, but he was weak in self-discipline and void of godly character. Goliath, the giant of the Philistines, was a physical giant, but one of the idolaters that fell before the young boy's sling. It takes more than physical bravery, athletic achievement, or muscles to be classified as a real man in the sight of God.

A real man is an example of honesty, clean living, clean speech, obedience to the laws, respect for authority, and truthfulness. A real man is a good example to follow. A real man dutifully provides for his family as best as he can. A real man will be concerned for the home and everyone in it. A real man does not forsake his family. A real man will make time to be with his children and see to it that they are growing in the right direction. A real man is an example of morality, responsibility, work, and purity. A real man does not commit adultery. A real man shows the dignity and honour of labour to his family.

Whether one is single or married, a father or not, a real man holds these things high on his list of that which is deserving of esteem.

The 10 Essential Ingredients for building a healthy relationship (cont'd)

In last week issue of the Newsletter, we presented three ingredients, honesty, forgiveness and communication. Today we present two more ingredients.

4. Trust

Trust is like honesty in that it deepens over time. Couples who are able to trust each other don't have to deal with insecurities between each other. They're able to speak freely and be themselves, knowing that their partner loves them for it.

5. Time Apart

Couples have to spend time away from each other. In the beginning, being inseparable is normal, but over time, couples need to develop different interests and habits in order to have continued interest in the relationship.

ON A SAD NOTE: Today we mourn the passing of our brother and friend, Clive Grossett, and moreso, the son of our dear sister, Icilda Slyfield. Clive was murdered on Tuesday, June 15. Please be in prayer for Sister Slyfield. Also, please pray for his wife, Judith and their two young daughters, Leslie and Lori, as they grapple with this senseless loss.
